REPORT ON TOS ACTIVITIES AT OSM 2014

During the TOS breakfast at the 2014 Ocean Sciences Meeting, TOS members and friends celebrated the achievements of colleagues selected recently as Fellows of The Oceanography Society. In addition to recognizing the new Fellows, Steven Holbrook was recognized as the most recent recipient of the Walter Munk Award, and Mel Briscoe was thanked for his many years of service as TOS co-chair for the 2012 and 2014 Ocean Sciences Meetings. Special guests invited to this year's TOS breakfast included participants in the OSM Mentoring Programs. TOS would like to thank Sea-Bird Scientific for its generous support of this event.

TOS FELLOWS

Richard T. Barber | For his sustained and fundamental contributions to the science, community service and mentorship of countless others in integrated ocean ecosystem science.

Jack Barth | For his contributions and sustained leadership in all aspects of continental shelf oceanography, and for his commitment to community service.

Theresa Paluszkiwicz | For her long-term vision and contributions in basic research, mentoring and outreach, and national and international program leadership.

P. Ted Strub | For advancing the understanding of eastern boundary current upwelling systems and leading interdisciplinary studies of these systems.
